Project Overview

The Mumbai local government required accurate and timely translation of a 200 pager Town Planning Report from Marathi to English before it could be presented for official approval and policy action. The document included both text-heavy content and graphical data representations.

The Challenge

The translation needed to reflect the formal tone of Marathi government language in a clear and accessible English version. The report also included a mix of editable and non-editable image-based content, requiring careful formatting and consistency across various sections. Considering the compliances required, the 200 pages needed to be translated within a tight deadline, and therefore chapter wise delivery was planned.

The Outcome

Language Services Bureau delivered an English translation of the report that was easy to understand while staying true to the original intent and tone. Both textual and image-based content were translated and revised efficiently. The on-time delivery enabled stakeholders to share and review the material promptly.
